Head of Naval Consulting Body Confirms News of Removal of Diver Peril; Means Secret

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 5.—A gigantic scheme to survey the needs and resources of all of the nations at war with Germany and to pro rate exports with reference to requirements, was today worked out by the Right Hon. Arthur James Balfour, in conference with Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes, Chairman of Committee Readfield and Lord Eustace Percy, a member of the British war mission to the United States.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.

NEW YORK, May 5.—Warfare will be revolutionized and the mighty world conflict may be brought to a speedy close as the result of an invention of the naval consulting board.

Not only will the submarine menace be removed, but new destructive forces have been found to wipe out fortresses and other defensive works.

W. T. Saunders, chairman of the naval consulting board, announced the solution of these staggering war problems today.

While few details were given, it is believed that the chief honor for the solution of the war menace goes to Thomas A. Edison, president of the naval consulting board.

Edison and his colleagues have been at work for many months, laboring with might and main to find a means of solving the big war problems, and chiefly the submarine menace.

With Yankee ingenuity sweeping the U-boats from the seas, Germany loses her chief weapon and the admitted dangers of England and France arising from the ruthless submarine campaign are removed. It may even open up the way for the invasion of Germany.

We have submitted a concrete plan to the navy department," said Saunders today.

"It is designed to handle the hostile submarine craft. It is not a theoretic plan, but one which is based upon actual experiments. More than this I cannot say at this time."

STUDYING WAR PROBLEMS.

Fifteen sub-committees of the naval consulting board have been bending all their energies toward solving the submarine menace and other big problems for many months. As the menace of the German U-boats grew, the activities of the inventors increased.

American naval officers who have been experiments made with the invention have predicted that European waters will be generally cleared of submarines within a month after the new method of war is put in operation on the other side.

Saunders refused to give any of the details of the machinery nor the explosive, if any, used in connection with it.

Saunders further announced that he was giving out news of the perfection of the invention to allay the growing fears over the U-boat situation.

After the statement had been issued Saunders was questioned by reporters. In reply to these interrogations he said that the invention could not only be counted upon to clear the war zone waters of submarines, but will "blast whole armies out of existence and raze fortresses of steel and concrete."

TO BUILD MACHINES.

If necessary, it was said, every steel mill in the country will be put to work constructing the necessary machinery for the invention. Already the machine are being built, it is believed, for Saunders said that a construction would be ready soon.

Chairman Saunders of the naval consulting board is a native of Columbus, Ga., and has had a distinguished career as an engineer. He was graduate from the University of Pennsylvania and has written extensively on engineering subjects. For a while he was in charge of the building of docks and the ship channel at Black Tom Island, where a big ammunition explosion occurred a year ago.

HIGH PRICE OF FUEL IS UNDER FIRE

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—"fuel price-fixing" which will cost the American public millions is imminent in the anthracite coal industry, according to the Federal Trade Commission, which took steps today to check it by placing the facts before the United States. There is no excuse for the "fixing," the commission says, nor for any increase in price. On the contrary, it is very warranted by the cost of production. The commission takes sharp issue with jobbers who have declared that they could not make summer discounts. The larger anthracite operators, it finds, will make their usual reductions and it says there is no reason why these should not be passed along to the consumers. The commission also promises to create a "blacklist" of all who take undue advantage of the necessities of the people.

After reviewing the resolution which authorized the investigation and declaring that the 1916 panic was unnecessary, the report continues:

"The commission is able to say there exists now no good reason for a panic in the anthracite market nor for any increase in the present selling price to consumers. On the contrary, the retail prices generally obtaining today are unwarranted. The wage increase agreed upon on April 26, 1917, will involve an increased cost of production of between 24 and 30 cents a ton. The price at which the leading

JUDGE BRADY HOLDS OXMAN TO ANSWER

Court Renders Opinion After Telephonic Conference With the Appellate Court Jurists

Magistrate Finds Sufficient Evidence Was Presented to Bind Bomb Witness Over

TRIBUNE BUREAU
63 MARKET ST.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—Frank C. Oxman, wealthy Oregon cattleman and chief witness against Thomas J. Mooney, facing the death penalty for alleged complicity in the preparedness parade bomb outrage, was held to answer to the superior court this morning on a charge of subornation of perjury. This action was taken by Police Judge Mathew Brady despite the issuance of a writ of habeas corpus by the District Court of Appeal requiring the production of Oxman before that tribunal on May 14. Attorney Samuel Shortridge, counsel for Oxman, contended that the writ of habeas corpus stayed the proceedings in the superior court. He contended that no valid order could be made in the original cause until the appellate tribunal had acted on the writ.

BRADY HOLDS CONFERENCE.

Judge Brady's decision to hold Oxman came after a telephonic consultation with the justices of the district court. When the argument of Oxman was concluded, Judge Brady announced that he had requested the United States Army to be organized under the draft bill now ready to be reported out of conference has been prepared for by the War Department:

It will consist of eighteen war-strength divisions and sixteen regiments of heavy field artillery, equipped with heavy field howitzers and two separate cavalry divisions.

It will number 18,538 officers and 52,658 enlisted men.

Eight new aero squadrons, eight balloon companies, ten field hospitals, ten ambulance companies, twenty-two field bakeries, six each of telephone battalions, pack companies, ammunition and supply trains.

All regular army officers in all

Guard officers will receive promotion.

Full strength of National Guard units now existing will be 98,47 officers and 329,954 men, making regular and militia army of 21,080 officers and 622,954 men to be whipped into shape before first draft army is called.

Almost immediately there will be drafted and in training, with the regulars and militiamen, an army of 1,200,000 as Uncle Sam's first fighting force, with other drafts to come as needed.

LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—An official outline of the method by which military registration is to be carried out under the selective conscription bill was made public today with an appeal from the War Department for the voluntary services of state election and other officials in order that there may be no delay in enrolling and classifying millions of men for army duty.

Careful preparation has been made to place the whole task in the hands of civilian officials of the states and to remove every suggestion of military force in putting the measure into effect. The only function of the Federal Government will be supervision through the office of the provost marshal general. The department's statement follows:

There was a time in the country's history when enumerators, backed by bayonets, went out among the people to take a compulsory service census.

Today, under the principle of universal liability to service, the execution of the law is put into the hands of the people, the approval of the new national army bill and the President's proclamation thereunder will be coincident. All persons within the age limits prescribed will be required to present themselves for registration at the customary places in voting precincts in which they have permanent homes in a day which the President will announce. The probability is that from ten to fifteen days will elapse between approval of the bill and registration day.

The governor of each state will be the chief of registration therein. The machinery of registration in each county is to be in charge of the sheriff, the county clerk and county physician, acting ex-officio, unless a different board shall be appointed by the governor. In cities containing populations of more than 30,000 the registration will be under control of the mayor and selected boards of registration.

In cities containing populations of less than 30,000 the registration will be under control of the mayor and selected boards of registration.

COUNTY ATTACKS FAIL.

The German counter thrusts furnished the greater part of the fighting, but around Mont Cornillet and east of Mont Cornillet the French again succeeded in gaining ground, in the handwriting, to F. E. Rigall, are not explained. In addition to these letters we have the testimony of the witness Rigall as to the two conversations he had with the defendant which corroborate the matters set forth in the letters. These conversations show that the witness Rigall was approached by the defendant to obtain his testimony in the Mooney case and that he was offered compensation.

MATTER OUT OF PROVINCE.

The defendant offered to produce evidence as to the character of Rigall and as to his own character. These are matters which the defense could not influence a committee of ministers as they merely go to the weight of the witness and the credibility of the witness and are solely within the province of a jury for determination.

"As to the motion made for a continuance, as I stated upon the denial thereof, the evidence which the defendant asked leave to present was, in my opinion, not material in the present hearing. In reaching my final determination, I want it distinctly understood that I am in no way reflecting on the office of the district attorney or of the conduct of that official or any of his subordinates. Their actions do not enter into this matter in the slightest degree, and I cannot refrain from saying in passing, that in the three years I have served as a judge in this court, I have found the district attorney and all his assistants ready and willing at all times to enforce the law to its very letter.

"Neither does any controversy between capital and labor enter into this matter or the guilt or innocence of the so-called bomb defendants, and it has not in the slightest degree entered into my determination.

"And I say further that nothing I have said during this proceeding, or any action that I have taken or will take has any bearing whatsoever upon the guilt or innocence of the so-called bomb defendants.

REMANDED TO SHERIFF.

"Therefore it appears from the evidence that a crime of felony has been committed and there being reasonable cause for belief on the part of the O. M. C. Committee, said crime, it is hereby ordered that said defendant be held to await trial before the superior court and pending said hearing be delivered to the custody of the sheriff until such time as he gives bail in the sum of $1,000 cash."

Shortridge, at the outset, was armed with nearly a dozen authorities tending to show that Judge Brady had no further jurisdiction in the case until the habeas corpus proceedings had been settled. In this stand he was supported by Assistant District Attorney Louis Ferrari, Attorney Thomas O'Connor, Maxwell McNutt and James Brennan, representing the bomb plot defendants, argued in disagreement. Judge Brady then stated that he would settle the matter without regard to the arguments or the representations of counsel and solely on the advice of the judges of the district court of appeal.

NIVELLE FORCES RETIREMENT

ing yesterday's attacks, the Germans again attempted counter attacks northwest of Rheims, toward evening bringing up great reserves from Arrouaise. They utterly failed in all attempts to advance, being smashed by the French heavy and field artillery, with huge losses to them. Two new German divisions were identified in the battle. We took 225 prisoners, including a German major.

"In the Champagne a violent battle occurred Friday evening in the region of Cornillet Mont. Our forces further progressed east of the mountain slopes around Mont Blond, despite heaviest resistance. Here also the Germans utilized two fresh divisions. Our captures were one hundred German soldiers."

FORCE REQUIREMENT.

LONDON, May 5.—Way for the flanking of the Laon pivot of the German Hindenburg line was open to the French today. If General Nivelle can turn the trick and outflank the Germans by capture of Laon in the immediate future, military strategists here believe the retirement of the Germans to the frontier line will be necessary.

Capture of Craonne, dominating the Aisne plateau and the Nivelle valley, taken in a surprise blow of great strength struck yesterday by the French commander, gives the French their entry point for this important operation. Today the French were nine miles distant from Laon, but with the intervening ground favorably situated for their further progress.

German reserves hurriedly concentrated to offset the French victory were stubbornly contesting every inch of the ground held by Nivelle's troops, and front despatches indicated a battle of gigantic proportions was gathering there.

PRINCE OF WALES WILL ASK FOR COUSIN'S HAND

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LONDON, May 5.—Prince Edward, Albert of Wales, heir apparent to the British throne, has answered to himself the question whom he will marry, according to the National News, a London weekly. The News says the prince has decided he will ask for the hand of his first cousin, Princess Maud, the youngest daughter of the Princess Royal and sister to Princess Arthur of Connaught.

The young princess is fourteen months older than the prince, who is 22. She has lived a retired life, the inseparable companion of her mother. Her father, the Duke of Fife, was the closest personal friend of the late King Edward.

The report of the National News contradicts the rumor current some time ago that the prince sought the hand of Princess Yolanda, eldest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy. Recently London newspapers, perhaps influenced by the downfall of the Russian aristocracy and the American stand against Germany's separate royal caste, have been reporting that the old system under which kings choose mates for themselves or their heirs among the daughters of their own nobility should be re-operators have announced that they will sell not exceed this increase. There is no justification for a larger increase to be passed on to the consumer, and the mine prices will not be affected.

"The new wage scale with the United Mine Workers is a natural and steady factor in the industry.

The commission has received assurances, both from responsible anthracite operators and from the miners' representatives that this will be a year of unusually large production. The commission is assured that there is no reason why May prices should not continue for the season and be subject to the usual summer discounts, namely 40 cents per ton in May, 30 cents in June, 20 cents in July and 10 cents in August.

SHOULD FOLLOW CUSTOM.

"The commission believes the custom normally followed by the majority of retailers of passing the benefit of these discounts on to the consumer should be followed by the whole trade.

"If the public is again so deceived as to indulge in a scramble for coal such as occurred last winter, the favorable situation above reported may be nullified. A demand for four months' coal in the single month of May will be most deplorable. If, on the other hand, purchases are made until the winter, there is no opportunity for speculators to fleece the public. The best thing that can happen now is for everyone to buy as has been his custom in former years. Many points must build up their winter supply during the summer when water transportation is available. Transportation will be secured immediately for future need.

"During the coal shortage of the winter of 1916 and 1917, one of the greatest factors in the distressing and intolerable condition was the unwaranted and indefensible practice of using coal cars for warehouses. Coal was held in cars by speculators while shortage of cars was alleged as a cause for fuel shortage.

SCORES SPECULATORS.

"The commission calls your attention also to other activities of speculators in anthracite coal who perform no useful service in the distribution of the coal, who insert themselves as a distributing and clogging factor upon the industry and whose unearned profits are much greater than those enjoyed by those of miner, operator or honest dealer. These profits, in many instances more than 100 per cent, were paid by the consumer, together with enormous bills for car demurrage.

"Within the scope of its power this commission will continue to exert every influence to avert the threatened recurrence of the conditions obtaining in the winter of 1916-1917.

The commission will expose any unscrupulous wholesaler, jobber or retailer who seeks to mislead the public into belief that coal and prices are justified. There is also a necessity to join in the frenzied bidding to secure immediate delivery for future need.

The report concludes:

SEEDS RETAIL PRICES.

"The fair retail price is that at the mouth of the mine, plus the cost of freight and the reasonable charge to the consumer by the retailer. The May price of ordinary white ash anthracite, allowing for the 40 per cent discount follows:

"Egg, gross ton (2240 pounds), $4.65; net ton (2000 pounds), $3.61.

Stove, gross ton, $4.30; net, $3.84.

Chestnut, gross ton, $4.40; net, ton, $3.93."

of competent volunteer registrars to serve without compensation. All registrars must be sworn. The voting place in each precinct must be prepared for registration. Full printed instructions covering every detail of registration will be in the hands of sheriffs and mayors on the fifth day after the President's proclamation.

The mayor of a city containing more than 30,000 inhabitants, or the officials designated by the governor therein, shall, with approval of the governor, appoint for each ward or convenient minor subdivision containing about 30,000 people, one registration board and shall designate one officer of each board to perform duties similar to those listed on the sheriff as heretofore outlined. If the mayor desires, he may appoint a central board to co-ordinate the work of minor boards.

ABSENTEES PROVIDED FOR.

On the fifth day after the President has issued his proclamation, clerks of counties and cities of over 30,000 must secure a supply of blanks and copies of the registration regulations from the sheriff or from the mayor. Absentees and the sheriff will apply to a secret clerk to have their registration blank filled in. In no case shall such persons be given registration certificates. They are to be instructed by the clerk that the burden is on them to see to it that the cards reach the registrars of their home precincts by registration day.

Persons absent from their home counties may be registered by mail. If so absent, a man should go to the clerk of the county or city where he may be staying on the sixth day after the President's proclamation. If he is in a city of over 30,000 population the city clerk is the official to whom to apply. The absentees will be told how to register, but he must mail his card in time to reach his precinct by registration day.

Persons too ill to present themselves for registration must send a competent person to the county or city clerk on the sixth day after the issuing of the proclamation. The clerk will give instructions for registration.

VOLUNTEER REGISTRARS.

Officials of educational, charitable and other institutions should apply for instructions to the county or city clerk on the sixth day after the date of proclamation as to a convenient method of registration.

The warden of jails, penitentiaries and reformatories should apply to the county or city clerk for instructions on the sixth day.

Two days after the date of the President's proclamation, complete regulations will be in the hands of all sheriffs and of the officials of cities of over 30,000 population.

The President is authorized to call upon all public officers to assist in the execution of the law. It is expected that patriotic citizens will offer their services free as registrars. Such services will be gratefully acknowledged. Volunteers for this service should communicate immediately with the proper official.

ORGANIZATION OF ARMY.

House of Representatives developed signs today that they might clean up the organization of raising America's armies within a day or two.

Sessions of the conferees committee started this forenoon. The Roosevelt division issue, the age limit question and of continuance of a complete system of government—a question that was not has been dissolved for the rule of the mob if the crowd's demand for resignation of various ministers had succeeded.

In the meantime the temper of the surging crowds on the streets has perceptibly changed. "Hell and impure" against the ministers have been quieted by cheers for Democratic Russia. Sober heads in the throngs apparently succeeded in bringing home to the demonstrators the necessity for continuance of a complete system of government—a question that was not has been dissolved for the rule of the mob if the crowd's demand for resignation of various ministers had succeeded.

DR. RITTER HEARD.

"Present Day Problems of Public Health" by Dr. Mary B. Ritter, and "Preparedness and Public Health" by Chester Rowell were the addresses of this morning's session. Both speakers brought out the increased necessity of preserving the health of the American people, bringing about a constant improvement in sanitary conditions and stamping out disease, brought about by the war.

"An address on 'Co-operation With Mexico,' in which Mrs. Donald Ray Morgan pointed out the need of the Mexican woman for the assistance of her more fortunate neighbors, was followed by an address by Miss Tayo Hasegawa, president of the Japanese Y. W. C. A. of Los Angeles, on "The Japanese Woman in America." Telling how the women of India are slowly forging ahead, Dhan Gobal Mukherji, Hindu poet and lecturer, spoke on "The Modern Woman in India." "The Religion of the Trenches" by John D. Barry, gave the convention a touch of what is doing in the war. "In the Looking Glass," presented by the Southern California Press Club, was the closing feature of the afternoon program.

EVENING PROGRAM.

The conservation program at the evening session will be illustrated with pictures of bird and plant life, Messrs. Sheehan and Williams telling of "Fifty Common Wild Flowers Everyone Should Know," R. S. Crandall exhibiting autochrome plates of bird's nests, Mrs. Harriet Williams Myers discussing California birds and Mrs. Carrie Stone Freeman adding a novel touch with her whistling of meadow lark calls.

The convention comes to a close with the presentation of the new officers to the convention and the delivery of the president's message.

SUSPECTS SOUGHT AS DYNAMITERS

OFFENSIVE NAVAL ACTION IS URGED

SAN DIEGO, May 5.—Two men for whom the police and federal authorities are searching are believed to have attempted to blow up the Post building in this city, in which is situated the United States naval recruiting station.

E. H. Post, owner of the building, told the authorities that he had discovered a man, unknown to him, in the rear of the building at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, carrying with the telephone and telegraph wires leading into the offices of the recruiting station. He said that the man refused to explain their mission to him and that he ordered them away, but that they refused to leave until he threatened to call the police. Then they disappeared.

Investigation of the premises by navy officers revealed that a trap door leading to the attic above the recruiting station had been forced open. It is believed the men either intended to tap the wires to gain military information or to scheme in preparation to a robbery on the Wells, Fargo offices, situated in the building.

The navy officials refused to disclose the details of a strange appearing article in a room under the trap door, which the police believe to be a bomb and which it was believed the men intended to connect the wires to cause its discharge.

LEAD CAMPAIGN

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 5.—Turning the basements of public school buildings into semi-cold storage plants for the housewives of the communities the schools serve was one of the methods advocated to conserve the food supply of the nation at a meeting of school authorities here today.

Heads of colleges and universities, county and city school superintendents and township trustees attended the meeting. Reports made at the meeting emphasized the fact that the public schools in every part of Indiana are doing their bit in the war food campaign.

In many communities school will be cut short two weeks to allow the boys and girls to work on the farm and in the garden.

INDIAN UPRISING

LIMA, Peru, May 5.—An Indian uprising is in progress in the Sandia region, the gold mining district in northwestern Peru, near the Bolivian border. Many owners of estates and their employees have been killed by the raiding tribesmen.

SOUND FURNISHES BIG FISH SUPPLY

SEATTLE, May 4.—If all the land crops of the United States should fail in 1917, one source of food supply could be counted on with certainty this year from Puget Sound—the quadrennial run of sockeye salmon and the biennial run of humpback salmon. Records of a century show that these enormous runs of fish in later summer have not failed or even varied materially, and the Indians told the earliest settlers that the traditions of the red men were that the salmon had always been running so—big runs of sockeyes each four years, and of humpbacks every second year, and smaller runs of fish in intervening years.

There are three other species of salmon, but among them there are no such irregularities. During the big years the sockeye salmon are taken in incredible numbers—thousands in a single haul of a net. All are adult fish weighing three to seven pounds and bound to the spawning grounds in the Fraser river and the rivers that empty into Puget Sound. The millions of fish that leave the ocean perish, either in the canary waters or from natural causes after spawning.

The sockeye salmon pack of 1913 on Puget Sound was 1,758,000 cases, valued at $10,000,000. The run of that year was as large as any ever observed, notwithstanding predictions of extermination made the preceding big year. The sockeye salmon is practically as good in flavor and color as the famous Chinook salmon of the Columbia river, and is known in the trade as red salmon.

LARGE PACK.

In the big years of the sockeye the humpback is neglected, although the latter fish runs in number equal to those of the sockeye. Thus in 1913 only 105,000 cases of humpbacks were packed. Fishermen refused to catch them, because the cannery workers were busy packing the more valuable sockeyes. The humpback is a smaller fish and the flesh is paler. Humpbacks are known in the trade as pink salmon.

It is the dream of fish culturists to build up the salmon runs so that every year will be a big year.

Two large canneries on Puget Sound are packing the dogfish, which is now eaten and relished under its new name of grayfish. The grayfish is a shark, but a decidedly clean-looking fish.

Until last year fishermen had looked on the grayfish as a nuisance. Trained in schools, the grayfish maimed the salmon in the nets and destroyed the nets.

On hauling in the net, the fishermen threw the grayfish ashore to die. Now the fish is salable, although not yet offered in the city markets.

Two additional large canneries are preparing to pack the grayfish, and one of these canneries already has an order from the Southern States for 15,000 cases. The grayfish will be a cheap fish, like the pink salmon. It is caught the year around in Puget Sound, but is irregular in its habits, roving about in droves, hence the original name dogfish.

SMELTS SHIPPED.

Shipment of carloads of Columbia river smelts to New York during the food shortage in that city last winter called attention to an extraordinary inches long. In January the smelt swam from the mouth of the Columbia river in millions, and when the water from the great river is of the right temperature the fish ascend the stream until they reach the Cowell river, on the Washington side, and the Sandy river, on the Oregon side, where they deposit their eggs.

Great numbers of men engaged in catching the fish with dip nets. They are of excellent flavor, but do not keep well, hence the effort is made to market them speedily. In January, when the weather is cool, the smelts may be kept longer, and the wholesale price goes as high as 2½ cents a pound, while in April, when the weather is warm, the fish are disposed of at a cent a pound. The irregularities of the runs of smelts, like those of the runs of salmon, are due to the fish declining to leave salt water until the fresh water is of the right temperature to please them.

LAST CHANCE IS ON MONDAY NIGHT

They are rounding the last lap in the Chevrolet contest, for everybody by this time understands that THE TRIBUNE gives away its last touring car at the Orpheum next Monday night. It means that there are only two days more in which to collect the precious TRIBUNE-Chevrolet shares.

If you think it is not a keen, hot race you are very much mistaken.

To tell the truth, it is going to be a whirlwind finish to the TRIBUNE'S brilliant successful Chevrolet contest.

The surest proof of this is that THE TRIBUNE'S cars are being taken around the Orpheum box office by the thousands, by the lots who are determined to have one last chance for a Chevrolet.

Another sign of intense interest is the fact that the Orpheum theater is even now almost completely sold out for next Monday night.

That reminds us to advise you to grab the telephone and call up the Orpheum at once to order your reserved seats for next Monday.

Remember the conditions, that you must be in the theater on Monday night, when the winning number is drawn and announced, in order to annex the Chevrolet.

Last Monday night the first winning number drawn was not responded to and the owner of this little piece of pasteboard accordingly lost a $625 Chevrolet car. A second number was drawn and a charming lady then won the car.

Imagine the feelings of the chaps who was sold later that his number drew the Chevrolet, and that he lost his chance because he was not among those present.

Remember that little incident and take it as a lesson. The moral is very simple. Be in the theater on Monday night, or you may share there, in the hands of some representatives, when the big touring car is allotted.

When $25,700 is paid as commission on a $68,000 dredger deal—

When a $2100 commission is "lost" in a dredger deal?

How can taxes be reduced?

Vote against this extravagance by electing Fred Morse and Fred Soderberg for Commissioners—Adv.

ELEVATOR STUCK, ELEVEN WOMEN MISS LECTURE

TRIBUNE BUREAU

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—Delayed for an hour and thirty-five minutes by the treacherous electricity of the elevator, Mrs. Charles W. Fay, wife of San Francisco's postmaster; Mrs. Walter Scott Franklin, Mrs. Clarence Musto and eight other members of the Women's Athletic Club were prevented from hearing a lecture on Red Cross work yesterday afternoon. The cage stuck in the shaft just below the fourth floor, where Miss Kathleen Burke, a bonnie lassie from Scotland, was telling of first aid measures.

Several loads of passengers had been carried up for the lecture when the mechanism of the lift suddenly rebelled and the cage stopped short in its ascent only a few feet below its destination. In response to the shouts of the elevator boy the electrician and engineer of the building came with their first aid appliances. For an hour they struggled with the maulish apparatus in vain, and finally they sent a call for experts from the elevator company. It took thirty-five minutes for the experts to restore circulation. The eleven club members weary and faint from the strain of standing so long in cramped quarters finally stepped out upon the fourth floor, only to find that the lecture was over and that Miss Burke had departed.

FORESTERS ELECT

SACRAMENTO, May 5.—Louis H. ## MAIL CENSORSHIP.

Censorship stamps will soon be seen on certain classes of registered mail passing through the local post offices, according to Jesse S. This does not apply to unregistered mail.

94.96 miles of new streets have been built under the supervision of Commissioner William J. Baccus. He is a candidate to succeed himself at the election to be held Tuesday, May 8th.

RESTRICT TRAVEL

Enemy aliens can no longer travel either in or out of the United States on American steamships, according to orders received here today. Citizens or subjects of the allied nations desirous of booking passage on American steamers may obtain permission from the government. For the purpose of separating the unfriendly from the friendly, a general order against aliens has been issued. Its local application may be seen in the following version issued by Charles E. Fee, passenger traffic manager of the Southern Pacific Company:

"Until further notice do not book on our steamers any passengers except those who are American citizens or naturalized aliens, requiring the letter to show their naturalization papers as being citizens of the United States before they can be booked for passage."

Mrs. Margaret Whitley of this city is suing her son-in-law, Max M. Dill, the rotund comedian of the Kolb and Dill company, in the San Francisco Superior Court for $1240 on claims asigned to a collector. She claims that part of this money is due her for "work and labor" performed, and part is an unpaid balance on money loaned to Dill within the last two years. Attorney James W. Cochrane, who filed the suit, stated that Mrs. Whitley acted as caretaker for two years for a number of cottages which Dill owns in Alameda. She receives her services at $50 a month and asks $1200 on this count. The other item of $40, she says, is the unpaid balance on a $200 loan she made to Dill. Mrs. Whitley is the mother of Dill's former wife, who was Miss Edith Whitley. The couple were divorced last year.

MISS
MEREDITH, whose marriage to

is set for tonight. She is the

Mr. and Mrs.
George Meredith
of Alameda.
Her fiance

time ago from the East after an adventurous journey from the Congo to London and through the lines of the German

The romance of Miss Georgia Meredith and Roland Barrows Oliver has been one of those thrilling, daring, unusual kind which, however, to-night ends most happily. For this evening a beautifully planned wedding will give to the gallant young lover who dared German submarine, and the perils of two oceans to reach California his lovely bride. It was months ago that he left the Congo with its famous diamond mines, coming after a banishment of several years to his marriage. He crossed safely to London and got into France. There was an anxious period with delay and finally the way flashed across the continent that he had reached New York. A few days in Washington, D. C., and the last thousand of miles of the long journey was accomplished. Only a brief weeks ago did he arrive.

He and his bride will spend their honeymoon in Southern California, but in the fall are planning to go again into the Congo by way of the Orient.

It is a charming ceremony which is arranged for this evening, with the Meredith residence in Alameda as the setting. It has been transformed into a bower of early summer flowers, with their beauty of coloring and fragrance. In the presence of the members of the two families and a few of the closest friends the marriage service will be read by Rev. W. E. Vaughn of Alameda. A. D. Oliver will be his brother's attendant. From her home in Stockton Mrs. George Harlowe has come to serve her sister as matron of honor.

The bridal gown is an exquisite one, combining tulle and silver lace over ivory satin. There is a beautiful arrangement of pearl embroidery to finish the robe, which will be worn with the lace veil, caught with its coronet of orange blossoms. Lines of the valley and orchids will be used in the shower bouquet.

Miss Meredith is one of the stunning girls in local society. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wynn Meredith. She took her degree from the University of California, from where her fiance also graduated. Oliver is a mining engineer who has accomplished an interesting mission in South Africa.

Professor William Dallam Armes of the University of California, as soon as college closes, is sailing for far-away Japan on a pleasure trip which he has had in anticipation for many months. Professor Armes has seen as yet no reason why war or rumors of submarine warfare should become a factor in changing his arrangements, and will venture upon the delightful voyage immediately after the commencement exercises.

Professor Armes is given a place among the authorities on Japanese art, which for many years has commanded his devotion. His collection of prints is a valuable one as well as comprehensive of the best the old and new work. Before his leave-taking he will be entertained at a number of charming affairs by that interesting group of the smart set with which he is a favorite.

An interesting visitor in the bay cities is Mrs. W. M. Galt, who has come on from her home in Washington, D. C., to remain for a few weeks as the house guest of her niece, Mrs. Warren P. Williams, at her home in Alameda. Mrs. Galt is an aunt of Mrs. Wilson, wife of the President of the United States. During her western sojourn she is being most happily fitted and being shown many of the delightful spots which the coast has to offer.

The dainty cards which have been received telling of the betrothal of Miss Mabelle Jewell and Ray Wall Fisher bring one of the interesting announcements of the month. The romance had its beginning long ago, when both were high school students, and will culminate in the pretty ceremony which will be an event of the coming year. Miss Jewell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clayton Jewell and traces her lineage to Abraham Lincoln. Many of the

... BY RUPERT HUGHES.

"Take an acre of our time, Sarah Bernhardt. What woman in human history has had more honor or made more money? Or take—"

"Fully tell it time to intervene. You're not at Heaven's sake, ring down. You're not at Heaven's sake, ring down."

Katie stopped and blinked like a sleep-walker abruptly wakened. "I beg your pardon," he said. "I was riding my hobby and he ran away."

The Windfords were plentifully impressed and Mrs. Winfield completely overwhelmed when Lady Brathwaite said:

"He's quite right, my dear. There's no question of the social position on stage. So many actresses have married our peers that you can tell which is the son of which and no end of your peers are going on the stage. They can't act, but it keeps them out of mischief in a way. And I can't see that stage-marriages are any less permanent than the others. Can you? I mean to say, I've known more charming ladies."

My poor friend the Duchesses of Stonehenge had a son who was a hopeless little cad and rotter—and he married an actress—you know the one from Hallie, too. And you know she's made a man of him, a family man, too. She has, really. And she's the most devoted of mothers. Really she is!"

Somehow the character Lady Brathwaite gave the stage made more impression on Mrs. Winfield than all of Roger's history.

On the long, late ride back to their hotel the old couple were meek, quite whipped-out. They had come to redeem an actress from perdition or better, to draw them still to the over-level, and had come with a bewildered feeling that an alliance with the Kemble family would be the making of them.

As the train bore them homeward, however, their old prejudices resumed sway. They began to feel resentful. If Sheila had been more lowly, suppliant and helpless they might have stooped to her. But a daughter-in-law who could earn over fifty thousand dollars a year was a dangerous thing about the house.

Young Winfield met his parents at the train and searched their faces eagerly. They looked guilty and almost pouting.

They said nothing till they were in their own car—it looked shabby after the Kemble turnout. Then Bret pleaded:

"Well, what do you think of Sheila?"

"She's very nice," said his mother, stonily.

"Is that all? She wrote me that you were wonderful. She said my father was one of the most distinguished-looking men she had ever seen, and as for my mother, she was simply beautiful, so fashionable and aristocratic—an angel, she called you, mother."

One may see through these things, but they can't be resisted. As Roger Kemble used to put it: "Say what you will, a bouquet beats a brickbat for comfort no matter what direction it comes from."

The Windfords blushed with pride and warmed over their comments on Sheila. In fact, they went so far as to say that Sheila would never give up the fast and fortune and admiration that were waiting for her, just to marry a common manufacturer's son.

This threw the fear of love into Bret and made him more than ever frantic to see Sheila and be reassured or put out of his misery. There was no restraining him. His father protested that he was not at home. But it was mating-season with the young man, and parents had only in his way, as their parents had been in theirs.

Bret telephoned Sheila that he was coming to New York to see her. She telephoned back: "Awfully love see you but hideously busy rehearsals souls devotion."

Then poor telegraph operators! They had to have them transmit most fairly stuck to the wires and up the keys.

Winfield determined to go, anyway, and to surprise her. He set out without warning and flew to the theater as soon as he reached New York. The tip-loving doorman declined so fiercely to take his card in that he frightened the poor swain out of the proffer of a bribe.

While Winfield loitered irresolute near the stage entrance an actor strolled out to snatch a few puffs of a cigarette while he was waiting. Bret Winfield was about to ask him to tell Miss Kemble that Mr. Winfield was waiting for her. He saw that the actor was Eldon.

He dodged behind the screen of a fire-escape from the gallery and slunk away unobserved. There was no fire-escape in his soul from the conflagration of jealousy that shot up at the sight of his rival, and the thought that Eldon was spending his days in Sheila's company, while her affianced lover gnashed his teeth.

He hung about like Mary's lamb for meekness and like Red Riding-Hood's wolf for wrath. He would wait for Sheila to come out for lunch. Hours passed. He saw Eldon dash across the street to a little restaurant and return with a cup of coffee and a bundle of sandwiches. Yod gods, he was feeding her!

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

... BY HOWARD R. GARIS.

"Oh, my goodness me makes alive and a peanut lollipop," whistled Uncle Wiggily through his pink, twinkling nose.

"Here's an adventure almost before I'm ready for it," and he stopped his automobile so quickly that he turned a somersault over the turnip steering wheel and out he popped like a cork from a bottle.

But Uncle Wiggily doesn't hurt a bit, for he fell on one of the soft沼ons (sausages) tires of his auto and bounced off like a rubber ball. Up he jumped, shouting, "Whoa! Whoa! Whoa!"

"Whoa! Whoa! Whoa! Whoa! Whoa!" cried Uncle Wiggily, "I wants help and what's the matter?"

"Oh, lots is the matter," answered a voice, and from behind the tree came Jumbo, the monkey boy. "I wants help and what's the matter?"

REFORMS ARE ADVOCATED BY WOMEN

SAN JOSE, May

ALAMEDA IS PREPARED TO BUILD SHIPS

AT ALAMEDA, May 5.—Alameda's Chamber of Commerce has met with the federal shipping board a report enumerating the advantages of Alameda's facilities for constructing wooden vessels as provided for in the government's $400,000,000 shipbuilding program.

The report points out that Alameda has the oldest wooden shipbuilding plant on San Francisco Bay, and has constructed more wooden ships than any other yard on San Francisco Bay. In addition, Alameda has more shipyards than any other shipbuilding plant in the world.

Alameda has a water frontage of more than 20,000 feet with rail facilities at available points, and extensive clearing yards in proximity to bonded timber areas, and climatic conditions that will permit construction throughout the year. According to the report, Alameda will build all or some of these ships.

If the federal shipping board decides in favor of Alameda it will mean the influx of hundreds of employees with the accompanying demand for home sites.

MRS. LAUGHLIN WEDS; FRIENDS HEAR OF NEWS

ALAMEDA, May 5.—Rumors of the marriage of Mrs. Adelaid Lauglin, former wife of Dr. John Lauglin, and A. L. Graham, a wealthy resident of Hayward, were confirmed today by the bride's friends. The wedding was solemnized in Alameda a month ago, and Mr. and Mrs. Graham will soon be at home at Lodi, where their residence is now.

Dr. Lauglin, whose maiden name was Adelaide Rodust, has been a prominent member of local society. She was formerly president of the City Club, and has many friends in the Encinal City. Her husband is heavily interested in the fruit and canning business.

The decree of divorce separating Dr. Lauglin and Mrs. Rodust was filed a few months ago. The suit was filed by Mrs. Lauglin and was uncontested.

Admirable Crichton' Jailed, Freed Much-Needed Butler Is Rescued

Oakland has at least one Admirable Crichton, and this one is immeasurably more competent and accomplished than Barrie's character. He is John Huber, butler to the family of Frank H. Proctor, San Francisco business man who resides at 245 Lee street, this city, and who yesterday was found guilty of contempt of court by Superior Judge W. H. Waste and sentenced to serve three days in the county jail after telling the court that an order just made requiring him to pay $25 back alimony to his wife, Fernade Huber, was unjust.

Huber spent last night in the county jail, being away from his duties less than twenty-four hours. This morning his employer appeared in court to beg Judge Waste to release him.

According to Proctor, another twenty-four hours' absence of Huber would wreck the Proctor home. Huber is housekeeper, nurse to the children, emergency cook, marketeer, maid, governess to the children, disciplinarian of the family, dishwasher, encyclopedia of domestic information and many other things besides. Proctor told the court, and unless he was immediately restored to the family the home would be wrecked.

"Under these circumstances," said Judge Waste, "I must release you, Huber, but to seek your home than two days if you will guarantee the payment of the $25 immediately Huber must return to his duties. Certainly he will be more proper punished for contempt of court by attending to his duties than by being given a vacation in the county jail."

The fines was promptly paid, and Huber released.

AVIATORS SEEK NEW CAMP SITE

SAN LEANDRO, May 5.—Since they have been prohibited from flying on the Alameda marsh, aviators of the east bay cities are endeavoring to secure flying grounds in this city, and it is hoped will be successful. Theayer Hall of Oakland, representing the birdmen, investigated the possibilities of local territory for aviation purposes yesterday and asked the co-operation of Town C. Q. Riedout in getting the necessary ground. According to Riedout, the best ground for such a purpose is that near the San Leandro bay. There are few if any suitable open spaces toward the foothills, most being hills and orchards, and besides the heavy traffic along the Franklin boulevard would interfere with aviation training, Riedout says.

Hall told Riedout that the aviators who propose to territory here are all flying ground as an aviators and as an instructor. A number of them, after undergoing a course of training, will join the army aviation corps.

NOW THE REVENGE BILL.

Congress will encounter its first real division when it takes up consideration of the revenue measures. Sharp differences of opinion exist as to the method and manner of raising the moneys which will be necessary to meet, in part at least, the war expenses. These differences are traditional and are usually referred to as political, but in reality they go much deeper than partisan contests; they are genuine conflicts of economic doctrines.

The army and navy bills, which will be passed within the next few days, carry appropriations aggregating over $2,800,000,000. Other appropriations for the civil establishments and miscellaneous purposes will bring the cost of government for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1917, up to approximately $3,500,000,000. This is not all the cost.

There are expenditures which cannot now be closely estimated, which indeed cannot at present be seen, but which are, nevertheless, certain to be encountered. The interest on the war bonds must be added to the national budget.

It is not the intention to meet all these expenditures by taxation, but it is proper that at least a part of them should be so discharged. The Secretary of the Treasury has suggested new sources of taxation through which to raise approximately one-half the cost of the war for the first year, or $1,807,000,000. These new taxation measures include increases in the income taxes on corporations and individuals and the excess profits tax, import duties on articles now admitted free, excise tax on sugar and petroleum, a tax on freight transportation receipts, stamp taxes on theater, baseball and amusement tickets and distilled spirits; taxation on passenger transportation receipts, fermented liquors, smoking and chewing tobacco, automobiles, trucks and motorcycles, soft drinks, cigarettes, cigars, rectified liquors, musical instruments, graphophones, glucose, denatured alcohol; on retail dealers in cigars, cigarettes, etc., wholesale dealers and jobbers in tobacco and snuffs. Mr. McAdoo also has suggested taxing incomes from State and municipal securities and the salaries of State and municipal employees.

This program is a forbidding one and certainly will be materially modified in Congress. It would seem the better part of wisdom for the administration to abandon at the outset all ideas of imposing property tax. It has no system for the collection of such taxes and it would take several years to devise and put into successful operation a tax collecting system. Property tax has broken down in so many instances that it would be a waste of time for the government to resort to it merely to make up deficits in an emergency. Only one of the bellicose powers has utilized the property tax idea. This is Germany, whose elaborate system of property valuation and tax collection was already built up, through fifteen years of preparation and experience.

Opposition will be encountered to proposals for increasing the excess profits tax. Many leaders in Congress have insisted all along that this is a tax on industry and initiative, and a premium on failures. So far all the evidence is in favor of this contention. It is generally recognized that the government should do everything possible to increase the business of production and distribution, the greatest opportunity for revenues resting in general prosperity for our complex industrial life.

The United States Chamber of Commerce, which has had this matter of increase in federal taxation under consideration for several months, issued on April 24 a bulletin for the information of its membership. In this statement the chamber says that it is possible, but most undesirable policy, to finance the war altogether from bond issue. It believes that such a policy imposes a heavy burden of taxation upon a country during the years of readjustment, and on purely financial grounds war finance based entirely upon loans contributes to a rise in prices and thus increases the money cost of war. It holds that an excess profits tax should be used only as a war measure. The national chamber's idea is that only $1,600,000,000 need be raised during the first year of the war, and suggests the following budget character), $100,000,000; excise taxes, $550,000,000. These suggestions were the result of a referendum submitted to the members of the national chamber, and among the replies were strongly stressed recommendations that retroactive taxes should not be imposed upon incomes and profits and that the amount of exemption from the capital stock tax should be lowered from $100,000 to $25,000.

There is practically unanimous agreement on the question of paying for the war in part as we go. It is a generally accepted doctrine that the generation waging war should pay for it, and it is likewise recognized as a sound principle that all interest on bonded debt should be paid by current taxation. If we pay half the cost of the first year of war out of current revenues, we shall be doing remarkably well.

So the contest impending in Congress will not be upon the main question of war taxation, but upon details of methods of levying it. Short shrift ought to be given all provincial suggestions, such as were advanced by Representative Kitchin during the last session of Congress. The taxation should be distributed evenly over the whole country, around Mr. Kitchin's home at Scotland Neck, south of the Mason and Dixon line, as well as north. The patriotic members of Congress will insist that none of the revenue measures be punitive in character and repressive of business enterprise.

TODAY, MAY 5, 1917.

PLANTING.

May Day was celebrated with due ceremony and colorful festival in Oakland. The children of the public schools participated, as usual, and the great lesson of planting was repeated according to formula.

One of the most noteworthy features of the day was the planting of the new white dahlia which Mr. Luther Burbank, its creator, has named for Oakland. The famous horticulturist made a special visit here from his home in Santa Rosa and personally planted one of his dahlia plants in the City Hall Plaza. Mr. Burbank has performed many conspicuous acts of public service in different parts of the country, but none have been more deeply appreciated than that by which he honors and adds to the fame of Oakland.

It is not inappropriate, however, to suggest that the children, fresh from the dance of the dahlias and their inspection of the horticultural delights of the public parks, direct their attention to other phases of plant culture. The season is right for planting food products. In no other period in history has there been a better opportunity offered to impress upon the people their dependence upon the munificence of the earth. In the furrows of the farmer may rest the fate of civilization. The human mind cannot fully appreciate the aesthetic and artistic pleasures if the stomach is in want.

There is an account of a rancher shipping hay by mail to an isolated interior point, the conditions of the parcel post law making it possible and cheaper than transportation by any other method and under the regular rail freight rates. There have been accounts of coal being similarly shipped, and instances of ore being got from isolated mines to smelting centers have been numerous. All of which is amazing and stupid. The parcel post was never intended to be utilized in that way. The provisions of the parcels post law are faulty when such advantage can be taken. That the lame points are not corrected shows lamentable indifference of the law-makers and the postal department. The law as it exists has operated to ruin unfortunate contractors who engaged to carry mails, and not freight, over difficult roads; and it continues to operate to the detriment of legitimate mail service, as nobody can obligate himself to carry such commodities as hay for compensation such as the postal department can afford to pay for carrying mail.

This preparedness idea is far-reaching. Advises from the South are to the effect that the Apaches of Arizona have summoned members of their tribe for a preparedness demonstration. Their rallying point has a significant name, "Roosevelt Dam." And the function they are to celebrate has a significant designation, "Devil Dance." They have just comprehended the full significance of the war to which this country has become a party. The Apaches are not overwhelming in numbers, but they are skilled in the use of modern firearms, are superb horsemen and the most wonderful trailers in the world, being tireless on their feet. The Devil Dance is appropriately named for the celebration which the Indians are to hold. It is of the peculiar character of Indian ceremonies and is calculated to drive out devils from the country and to intercede with the Great Spirit for abundant crops.

The grand jury's prompt commendation of District Attorney Fickert of San Francisco, following the outspoken characterization by Judge Dunge of alleged efforts to discredit him and the processes of the law which were put in operation to punish those guilty of the crime of the preparedness day parade, whoever they are, will go a great way to reassure the law-abiding public. The discouraging prospect was ahead that lawful effort to mete out punishment to the guilty might not be properly sustained in the community that suffered from it. Prompt action by the grand jury, after a fair investigation, has gone far toward restoring a responsible equilibrium.

It may be of slight news interest in some European capitals to know that the American army and navy bill carrying an appropriation of $2,827,553,653—the largest in the history of the world—passed the lower house of Congress by a vote of 362 to 1.

COMMENT

The weather man who summarizes April as a "hot month" is the most recent humorist. One whose trade is that of weather prognostication ought to be able to come nearer the mark than that as to weather that is past.

A despatch is to the effect that German workers sign appeal for "victorious peace." In this connection it is pertinent to inquire, "victorious for whom?"

Important news from Trinity county: Eight women on a jury at Hayfork, which tried Fred F. Halle of Peanut for blindpigging, out-argued the four men and secured a conviction. The Trinity nomenclature, by the way, is not strikingly esthetic.

The chicken that achieves the egg, or is expected to, has become a most interesting boarder on account of the high price of feed. The ax is being brought into requisition with unusual promptness nowadays when there is loafing on the job.

Repairs are being rushed on the seventy-one German and Austrian ships interned in this country and which were more or less maliciously disabled when it became evident that they were to become this nation's permanent possession. They will constitute an appreciable addition to the commercial fleets of the country.

Today is the day when Luther Burbank plants the oak in Oakland. It should be an impressive occasion to those who take full account of the things of a very different nature that are going on in other parts of the earth.

Three-fourths of the complaints of failure to provide in San Francisco, made within six months, were adjudicated without issuance of warrants for arrest, showing that judicious action in such cases sidesteps a lot of legal fuss that generally is futile after all. There were 455 such cases, in 139 of which warrants were issued.

Earl Curzon, member of the British war council, doesn't agree with the American secretary of the interior as to the imminence of disaster from the diver warfare. He says the limit calculated by the cabinet as to toward results has not yet been reached. The Earl would seem to be good authority.

The San Jose Mercury tells of the city manager's spreading fame: "Manager Reed's belligerent propensities have been newsworthy abroad. A Detroit firm sends him an elaborate catalogue of armored motor cars and suggests that he entertain the proposition of investing in one."

The Chicago News hazards the prediction that the boarder who used to complain of too much potato in the codfish ball is now likely to complain of too much codfish in the potato ball.

Essay on an intricate subject, from the Corning Observer: "Rubber heels were invented to soften the way of life. Some folks could make their little heels out of worn-out pieces and still have enough material to twist their heads into other people's affairs that don't concern them. Some situations require rubber heels. As, for instance, when a man gets home in the morning at 3 o'clock."

It is published that the organized fishermen of Monterey have planned to sell direct to consumers in San Francisco, and salmon is quoted at 8 cents a pound. Some difference between 8 and 20, the price that was quoted by the unofficial fixer of prices one week ago. And there is no explanation that the fish have suddenly become more plenty.

Chicago's mayor is coming in for some unpleasant attention for refusing to invite the French envoy because so many Germans reside in that city. Chicago edges up toward LaFollette's stamping ground, to be sure, but the feeling there does not seem to be strong enough to make such action the proper thing.

There is great ado on the harbor front of San Francisco because watchmen are employed there who are not under civil service. Those who have regular jobs there are very solicitous to have everything regular.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

Mining men report a scarcity of labor of the right sort in the Mother Lode section, where there is considerable activity on the part of capital but shortage of skilled men for mining work. Operating companies developing mining properties are hard pressed on all sides, for the continuing high cost of all kinds of supplies needed in their work is a great handicap, and now with labor scarce more troubles are upon the mining people.—Stockton Independent.

The Walnut Creek Courier has started out to show where money has been squandered by the supervisors on useless road work. Not a hard task, we should imagine, for during the past fifty years about all the real substantial work which has been done is the Tunnel road leading into Oakland from Walnut Creek.

However, there are other boards of supervisors in California equally prodigal with the people's money.—Richmond Record-Herald.

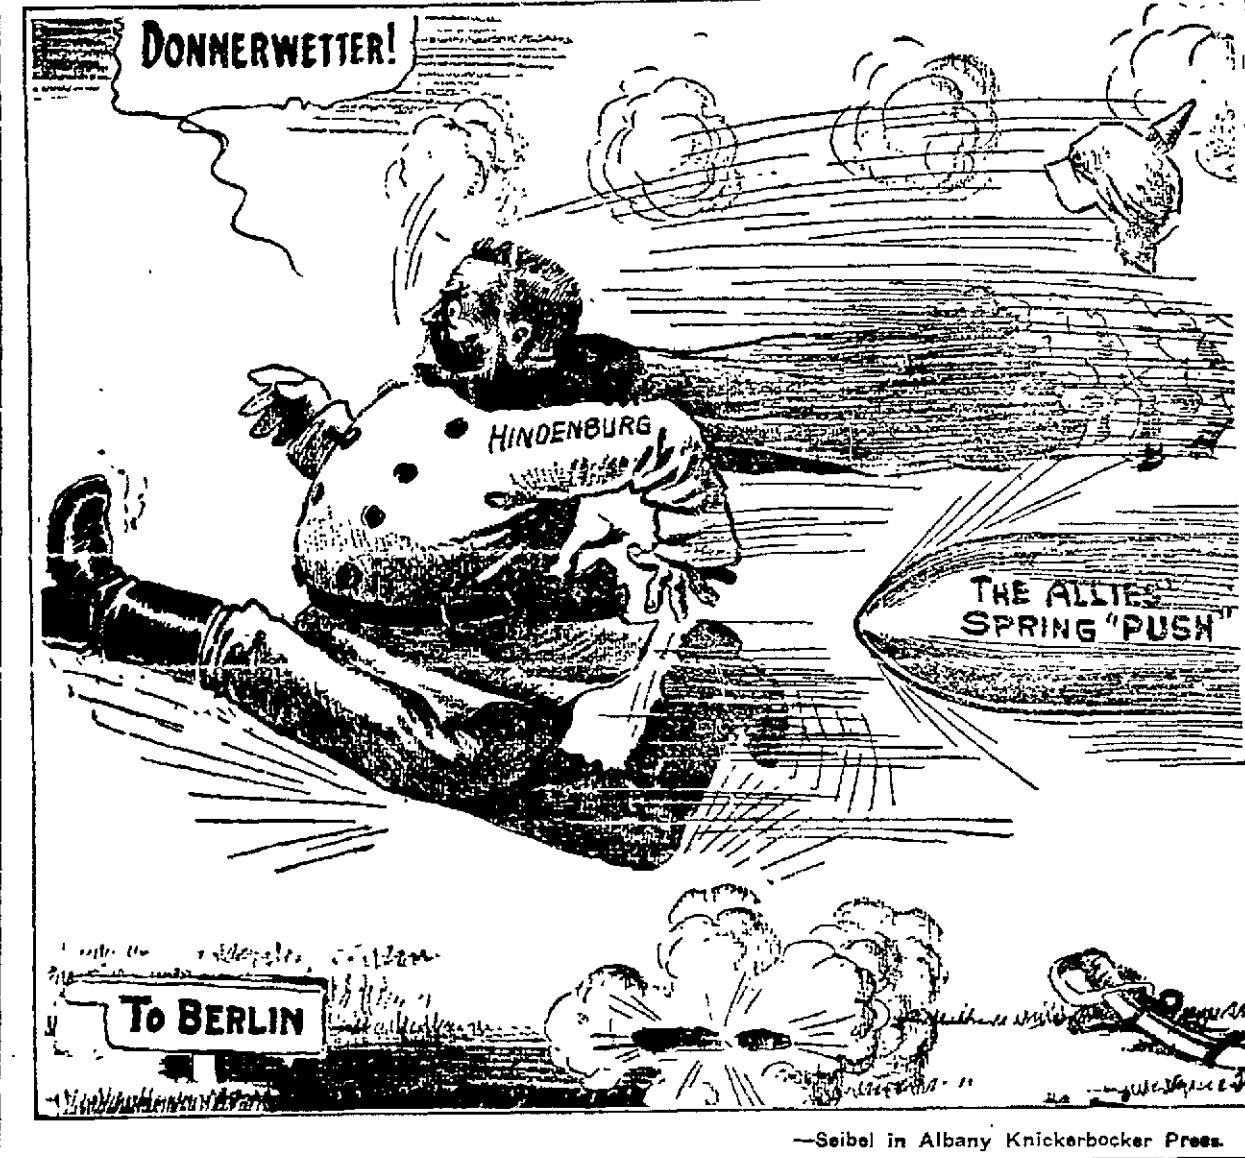

He was from San Francisco and spent the day at Alum Rock park, violently waving, first one hand and then the other, warding off millions of small gnats. Finally the party with whom he was walking about the park wandered along to the bathhouse. The San Francisco man stopped stalk still in front of the building. "Not on your life," he announced, battling fiercely at the gnats. "You don't get me in there."

"What's the big idea?" inquired one of his friends. "Well, take a look," replied the San Francisco man. "That sign over the door says 'Natatorium' and the pesky things are driving me crazy out here, without going into the hatching."

THE DEEPER MADNESS

There is a madness deeper than the mind's, a madness virulent in nerve and blood, Dark with the utter, inner dark that blinds

Man's spirit, choosing evil for its good: This is the madness, foul, deliberate, That scourges honor from the field of strife,

Closes the door of pity, hands to hate The keys of the despoiled house of life,

How long shall this accursed thing endure,

The madness that speeds death to mercy-ships,

Spits on the crucifix, defiles the poor, And gibus at worn'ts tears with sneering lips!

Its doom is fixed in the resistless scorn Of armies marching to the drums of morn!

DAHLIA IS PLANTED IN BIG MAY FETE

Under a perfect California sky, 30,000 school children gathered today to celebrate Oakland's great annual May day festival at the most pretentious open-air celebration and pageant in which they have ever participated, and one of the largest ever held in the United States.

There were many angles to the affair, which provided full afternoon of unrestrained enjoyment. Starting with the welcoming of Luther Burbank, California's great plant wizard, the planting of his oakland dahlia, queen of the flower world, in the City Hall Plaza, reaching a climax with the pictorial pageant in Trestle Glen Park, where fairies and woodland gamboled on the green in commemoration of Joaquin Miller, the poet, and ending with the wild flower show, unique of its kind, in the Oakland Auditorium later in the day, the affair was a tremendous success.

Without infringement, Luther Burbank bulked against the skyline of the day's events as the biggest single figure present. To him was all homage given—the reigning monarch of all things horticultural on this the fete d'anneau when the children met for the first time face to face the flower king. And among the flowers has brought him world fame. Their homage was sincere and spontaneous, and found utterance in cheers and applause that had their collective hearts behind it. For from the larger ones down to the tiniest buds, each and every one understood that Luther Burbank was their honored guest, and they gave him royal welcome.

FETE OF FLOWERS.

From the time Burbank stepped from his automobile in front of the City Hall until he completed his inspection of the wild flowers culled from a hundred fields by scores of children, the May day festival was a fete of flowers. The children wore flowers in their hair; they scattered them to the breezes so that they is a many-tinted pathway; they danced among them on the green woodland dunes that portrayed the spirit of childhood unleashed; and at the end they saw them decorated with awards of merit for the colors they had and the artistry of their garlands of flowers.

Ceremonies started promptly at 1 o'clock this afternoon with the arrival of Burbank, Mrs. Burbank and a party from the Oakland Chamber of Commerce at the City Hall Plaza. A detachment of Boy Scouts acted as honorary escort and a boy's band preceded the guest of the day. Hundreds of children banked the lawn in front of the City Hall and steps, cheering and waving flags, pennants and garlands of flowers.

Almost immediately, Burbank stepped to the big marble urn which is to guard the precious bulb of the Oakland dahlia which he has planted in the center of the city. With a few simple words he turned the earth in the urn and placed the bulb in its cradle, where it will remain until the first tiny shoot peaks above the surface and nods its greeting to its own big city. Cheer after cheer broke out from the children and hundreds of voices rose in a song of welcome. Joseph E. Caine of the Chamber of Commerce accepted the Oakland Dahlia on behalf of the city. Burbank was then presented by Joseph E. Knowland with a handsome engrossed and illuminated roll of parchment in commemoration of the occasion.

IN BIG PARADE.

A parade then took place, consisting of Burbank, his escort and guard of honor and the school children, scores of automobiles and the boy's band. Special cars had been provided by the San Francisco-Oakland Trolley Lines, always a favorite of children, and always a favorite of the parade, went through the main streets of the city to Trestle Glen Park, where the main May day portion of the festival was scheduled to take place. Here was started the great floral and woodland pageant and, the joint direction of the playground directors, the Board of Park Commissioners and the Board of Education.

Temporary bleachers had been erected on the glade where the performance took place, and grassy knolls and forest hillocks opened everywhere. There within the sheltering circle of a ring of giant trees, on the mossy slopes of natural amphitheater, thousands of school children gamboled and danced through the mazes of the afternoon's program. May Day, the great feature of the day, the dance of the dahlia in Burbank's honor, the gold dance, the silver dance, the dance of the metals, the flowers, the fruits, of all living things. Living poppies, human roses, breathing dahlias, wove to and fro in the Maypole dance, in old English folk dances, in all the varied evolutions of joy unleashed, until the mass of girls were given a rotating, swirling pageant of riotous color and enthusiasm.

FINAL CHAPTER STAGED.

At the conclusion, when the wild Indians had been curbed, the fairies bedded, the wood nymphs frightened away and even the queen had grown weary, Burbank and his party left reluctantly the cool and shady glens and wended their way to the Oakland Auditorium, where the final chapter in the day's happenings was staged. There in rows and panels, heaps, piles and cascades, were masses of the wild flowers for which California is tourist famous—flowers gathered from the fields of Alameda county, and arranged in all manner of artistic designs. There, while the committee which had been at work all day completed its task and waited to wait for the awards of merit that paid for all the time and effort that had been put forth.

When it was all over Luther Burbank summed it up in one phrase,

"The most wonderful thing ever staged in California," he said. And those who saw it agreed unhesitatingly.

As a part of the ceremony in observance of the memory of the poet, the flag at the city hall was placed at half-mast.

HOME RULE IS CAUSE OF RIOT

NEW YORK, May 5.—When Chief Magistrate William McAdoo, the chairman of a mass meeting held last night at Cooper Union, by thirty-two organizations composed of Americans of Irish birth or descent, refused to receive a resolution calling upon President Wilson and Congress to intercede in behalf of Ireland, independence, a riot broke out which resulted in the collision of more than thirty persons from the hall and which was quelled by 200 policemen made free use of their clubs.

The trouble began at the close of a speech by former United States Senator James F. O'Gorman when Richard F. Dalton, a young Long Island City lawyer, attempted, in defiance of the chairman, to read a resolution providing for home rule. He was seized bodily by the deputies and carried to the nearest exit. Instantly cried of "Free speech" and "Home rule," the men rushed from all parts of the hall. Women stood up on chairs and cried at the top of their voices, "We will fight for America, but down with England!"

Seventy policemen on duty at the hall sooner checked the rioting in one part of the building than it broke out afresh in some other section of the hall. Not until the reserve arrived did they restore a semblance of order.

The meeting was called to demonstrate the loyalty of Irish-Americans to the United States.

SEES INVASION

HARTFORD, Conn., May 5.—"Unless the United States marshals all her resources, both military and industrial, and does it immediately, there is a great probability that we shall see German troops in this country within a year," said Judge Lucien F. Burpee, chairman of the State military emergency board, on his return with General Holcomb from the conference of the National Council of Defense at Washington.

"I had never believed this probable or even possible," he continued, "but the facts presented by Government officials were convincing and those from the English and French officials visiting this country make it plain that the situation in England and France is desperate. Germany has a strangle hold on England and that cannot be loosened both countries will be throttled."

VOLUNTEERS WOULD JOIN T.R.'S FORCE

Possibility that the Oakland volunteers may have a chance to see active service in France before the completion of the enrollment of the regular army has developed today through the telegraphic offer which Colonel Valter J. Petersen is preparing for sending to the War Office, offering him the services of the home regiment for active operations.

More than 600 men have been training night at Piedmont pavilion under the direction of United States army officers, and are said to be whipping into shape with more than usual rapidity. Roosevelt's regiment is being recruited for active service in France and is expected to be the first within the firing line. If the offer is accepted the work of equipping the home regiment will begin so soon as the government can secure necessary equipment.

HIGH BOYS JOIN.

Batter B of Field Artillery will give a demonstration of a battery in action at the Oakland Technical high school next Tuesday morning. The demonstration will be under the leadership of Sergeant C. T. Nielsen. Batter B is close to war strength of 184 with numbers of high school boys joining the ranks weekly. Among those from the Oakland high school who have enlisted is Douglas Nielsen, captain of the football team and president of the student body. Others of his school, he declared, are going to enlist during the coming week.

Notices telling more than 1800 applicants for commissions in the officers' training corps that they have been selected to report to the Presidio training school for instruction and the mail today. Approximately 2000 have been selected, the balance of the notifications to be sent today. While the work of selection was still in progress word was received from Washington that all men attending the training school between the ages of 21 and 27 will be permitted to take examinations for a second lieutenant's commission in the regular army at the close of their instruction period.

PLACES FOR TRAINING.

According to instructions issued at home stations of each American Red Cross hospital base in the Western department, will be the place for annual training of reserves. There are two such hospitals in this department—the University of California hospital in this district and the Good Samaritan hospital in Los Angeles.

From the various departments of the Red Cross is coming word of the mobilizing of the various interests. Forty-two men comprising the two ambulance units sent by the University of California for service on the French front left Oakland yesterday on the Pacific Limited for New York. They will arrive in France in June.

Forty per cent of the employees of E. H. Rollins & Company, investment brokers, of San Francisco, have secured permission to attend the officers' training camp at the Presidio for three months' service, according to a notification to clients sent out by the concern today.

"While this will handicap our business," says the notice, "we are proud to have so many willing to serve their country in this crisis."

SON OF BATTLE IS VANQUISHED

Because of the strict censorship existing about all occurrences within the city prison it is not known whether Henry Deeths, oil worker, when sober but aggressive at other times, endeavored to kick out the iron bars on his cell or tried to break his way out, but he was hard against the Hindenburg line of fallers and police.

Deeths entered the new home on his son Henry Deeths Jr. and, in an intoxicated state, he was arrested and placed in the Desert Man.

OAKS BOOT AWAY GAME THEY HAD SEWED UP

Bill Burns Again Fails to Go Full Route and Seems Likely to Be Pried Loose From a Job

(Special to The TRIBUNE)

PORTLAND, Ore., May 5.—Bill Burns, veteran southpaw pitcher of Oakland, Los Angeles and Salt Lake experience at various stages of the game, has about pitched himself out of a job on Del Howard's payroll. That is the unofficial opinion here today, following his blowup in the ninth inning yesterday when he was breezing along with a 4-to-1 lead, only to feed Cy Williams a groover with two men on. Williams stepped into that crippler and chased it out of the lot to tie up the score. Krause went to the rescue and two innings later the Beavers found him for another run and a 5-to-4 victory, evening up the count on the week's series.

Burns had been chased off the mound in Thursday's game for the fifth time of the season. Howard has two pitchers, Kremer and Pruett, in Oakland for whom he must make plans. Pruett is on the disabled list but cannot stay there long, and Howard has room for only one of these two pitchers with his present staff. Burns has not been able to go the full route more than twice this season and Howard's fond hopes of the springtime seem to be fading in the case of the veteran. When Howard chased him out for another start yesterday, everybody had the hunch that Burns was out for the real old acid test stuff. And when he again failed to show the full route stuff, Burns seemed to know by the way he walked off the field that he was through. Howard would make no announcement.

That ninth inning was a heart-breaker for everybody but the few Portland fans who stayed for the finish. For most of the paid admission boys had gone home to supper when the things started to break. Oakland seemed a cinch to win with a 4-to-1 lead that the Howardites had piled up against Penner. Warren Adams and Rod Murphy, usually the most reliable of fielders, started Burns on the road to ruin. O'Mara took Will's slow roller and his throw went through Adams' hands to the stand. Then Farmer shot a hot one at Burns that showed the Beavers had found the range. Burns managed to retire his man at first by making a game stop of the line drive. But Murphy booted Stumpf's grounder and there were two men on.

WILLIAMS PICKS ON CRIPPLE. Then came Cy Williams, who had booted away a couple of games for McCreddie when the Beavers were playing in the Oakland territory. Burns fed him one just where he wanted it, and there was a ball lost over the right field fence, and the score was tied.

When Sigin followed up with a single, his second of the game—Del Howard decided that Burns had had his chance and Harry Krause was sent out to do the work. Krause stopped that ninth inning while the score was still tied, but his mates could not do anything with Breton in the next two frames.

MIDDLETON NEAR A SCORE. Oakland had a great chance in the eleventh when Middleton and Murphy each singled and then worked the double steal, putting Middleton on third and Murphy on second. Middleton tried his old trick of stealing home and came just close enough to getting away with it so that there was no particular satisfaction in the Beavers' ends when Breton's throw just beat Sepulveda in time to catch third. Adams stole and singles by Lee and Middleton counted two runs.

In the last of the eleventh Farmer opened with a single and took second when Williams was thrown out by Krause. Then came Sigin with his third hit of the day, and it was all over—Farmer chased in with the winning—and the Beavers had evened up the series after getting off to a bad start. Also, they had pulled themselves up into a tie with Los Angeles for fifth place and had pulled the Oaks down into a tie with Vernon for third place, three games behind the league leaders.

MURPHY'S BOOTS COSTLY.

Middleton had scored Oakland's first run in the second frame when he forced Lee and scored on Murphy's single and Sigin's out. Murphy's error gave the Beavers their start to evening the count in the fourth. Stumpf gained a life and scoring on singles by Williams and Sigin. The Oaks put over another in the seventh when Williams and Sigin scored. Lee and Sigin doubled. Two more came for the Oaks in the eighth when O'Mara doubled and was caught at third on Adams' grounder. Adams stole and singles by Lee and Middleton counted two runs.

SPIDER BAUM HOLDS ANGELS TO THREE HITS, BUT DOWNS STEALS SOME GLORY. Jerry Downs stole some of Spider Baum's thunder when the Seals finally came through with a win against Frank Chance's Angels yesterday. The bulk of the credit belongs to Spider, of course, for he held the Angels to three hits and had them well in hand in the way just as the right-hander was working, as though Wolverine did not have a pitcher who could hold the southerners. In the first three games, where the Angels cleaned up their slate, Jerry Downs was out of the lineup and the Seal offense seemed to be a minus quantity. Yesterday Jerry was back on the job, the old batting order was resumed, and there was the old fight inside. The Angels connected for two hits—one of them chased in a run and kept alive a three-run rally, and later on in the game he advanced a man with a sacrifice to a point where he could be chased in. In the last run of San Francisco's 4-to-0 win, it was his only hit.

It was the first Seal win of the week, and Spider Baum looked like a major-leaguer pitching again. The record of most of the last was his only hit.

INDUSTRIAL NEWS ITEMS OF INTEREST CONCERNING the MANUFACTURERS THE EAST BAY DISTRICT

An industry little known by the general public though one of the largest and oldest of the various industries of Alameda county and one holding a most important place, is the manufacture of salt. This being the case, the process of obtaining this vitally necessary but today little considered commodity for our table is interesting. Our eyes are opened to a new view of the case with which quantity and quality may now be obtained in contrast to the painstaking and at times frantic search for the "salt of the earth" which men and animals were forced to make at an earlier date.

Salt, in the forms generally used, varying from coarse rock salt to fine table salt, is recovered from sea water by evaporation which eliminates other undesirable solids. These solids are not now included in the industry for the recovery of common salt. Sea water contains about 2 per cent of solid matter in solution about 1/4 per cent of which is sodium chloride (common salt) the balance of 3/4 per cent being made up of gypsum, Epsom salts, magnesium chloride, potash, iodine, bromine and other salts.

Automatic flood gates are opened by the rising tide and allow water from the bay to flow into the main canals. The gates then close and hold the water in as the tide flows out. From the main canals large volumes of water are pumped to evaporating ponds by paddle wheel and electric power. These paddle wheels are of wood, as metal would soon rust, and seem at first glance crude and inefficient. Actual test, however, has proven them the most efficient for the low heads on which they are operated.

A daily evaporation of 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 gallons of water is the work of the Oliver Salt Works at Mt. Eden, Calif., whose ponds cover 1400 acres. During the process of evaporation the brine is moved from one pond to another as the various salts to be eliminated begin to settle. When at last the salt to be manufactured begins to crystallize, the brine is moved to the main crystallizing ponds where several grades are secured. The different grades are scraped from the ponds, piled into mounds like haystacks and hauled by train to the storage grounds. In the mill it is washed, ground, dried and prepared for the market in every known form.

After the salt has been formed, the mother liquor contains the important salts before mentioned and there is every reason to believe that the recovery of these will in time be added to the salt industry.

A competent official is known by his appointees. If you want to keep a superior man like W. W. Keith as Harbor Master, vote for Harry S. Anderson.
